The Delegation from Kaliningrad, Russia sent following report.

Dear Adrian and Julian,

Today was the day of our action plan. This day was full of exciting feelings, because today was the day of our experience sharing with our mates from hometown. For us it was very important and we were a little bit nervous before our action, but when we started to work the sense of excitement went away. Our group successfully coped with the task.

We played a scale game and then discussed the answers with students. Then we asked them to share in pairs and to ask each other a question "who are you?" and to write their answers on pieces of sheet. And at the last part of our action we told students a little fairytale and afterwards ask them some questions. At the end of our action we shared our experience from our trip with students.

In the beginning of our acting we worried that some students won’t be interested in our activity, but soon we realized that they were more than interested in it. So we can proudly say that we had no difficulties and other unexpected things in our work.

During our action we achieved all of our aims and even more. We received a great experience and I think that our group organized everything in the best way, moreover, we are going to develop our skills and next time we will do everything even better than it was.

We are really satisfied with ourselves and we would like to try something like this one more time in the future. Also we would like to thank you for this opportunity. Thank you so much!

Best wishes from Kaliningrad!
